Welcome back to Term 2! I hope everyone was able to enjoy some family time over the Easter break and recharge ready for the very busy term ahead. My family enjoyed getting back to Pambula after missing last year. The weather was sensational and the water temperature amazing. In fact, it was so good that it's hard to believe Winter is not far away.

Here is one of my favourite holiday snaps we took whilst in the caravan park at Pambula Beach. Yes – I spent lots of time looking out at the water too!

LOOKING FORWARD TO TERM 2

We have a lot to look forward to this term. As always it will be action packed and engaging. Some of events and activities this term include:

- House, District & Division Cross Country
- NAPLAN testing
- RAMP whole school maths focus
- Mothers Day
- Year 3/4 Swimming lessons
- Michael Ymer Maths Night for Parents
- Continuous Reporting (Seesaw)
- Incursions and excursions

And much, much more!

PARENT HELPERS PROGRAM

Great news! Based on the advice from the most recent Schools Operations Guide, we are able to begin our Parent Helper Program. Density limits of one person per two square metres apply, so at this stage we will be limiting help in classrooms to one person at any one time.

Our teaching teams will begin communicating how this will work in each of our classrooms over the next couple of weeks.

All helpers are required to complete a Parent Helper Induction which also includes providing Working With Children Check details and reading our Child Safe policies. Parent Helper Inductions (which only take 15 mins) will be held at 9am Monday 26th April, 3pm Monday 26th April and 5.30pm Tuesday 27th April. More times will also be advertised in the newsletter each week.

NEW SHADE STRUCTURE HAS BEEN DELIVERED!

Have you had the chance to see our brand new shade structure? Here are a few photos of this great addition to our school. We now have a large outdoor learning space that is covered and protected from the weather and that offer us lots of new opportunities for learning and play. It has been suggested that this looks like Greenhills own Opera House but we are still looking for a catchy or appropriate name for it.

HOUSE CROSS COUNTRY

Well done to all of our students who participated in our House Cross Country Carnival on Wednesday at Whatmough Park. It was a terrific day with all the elements of a successful day coming together: the weather, a wonderful level of parental attendance and support, outstanding organisation by Jordan Daley and the staff team and most importantly an amazing level of student participation and engagement.

Congratulations to all of the students who pushed themselves out of their comfort zone and well done to those who will go on to represent our school at District level.

Our House Sports days are a real feature of our school and a celebration of our school culture and values. Most importantly, they provide the opportunity for all students to participate at their own level with a great level of support from everyone.

ANOTHER REMINDER ABOUT TRAFFIC & PARKING

I know that getting to and from school on time each day can be a parent's worst nightmare. Like many other schools, Greenhills does not have a dedicated carpark for parents to use. As such we have to work together under the existing conditions and environment to ensure that we can get all students to and from school safely and in the most efficient way.

We have a number of "local" processes to help with this and here is a reminder about two of them.

#1 - DROP OFF ONLY ZONE ALONG MINE STREET

I've done some research and calculations:

There are six car parks in this zone. If there is 15 minutes in the morning to drop off (e.g. 8.40am – 8.55am) and if the average "kiss and drop" takes no more than 30 seconds, and if parents don't park their car and leave it so that there is only 5 spots left....we could get.....drum roll please.....180 drops offs to happen smoothly during that time. We could get even more drop offs completed by not even taking 30 seconds. In fact I have been taking a close look over recent mornings and in many cases, cars can be in and out in around 15-20 seconds.

I have seen it work really well and we can ensure this continues if we all contribute by doing the right thing. Please don't get out of your car, have students ready to go and make sure they get out on the curb or footpath side of the car!

Connected School - Why it's good for children to be bored

By 'The Resilience Project'

In days gone by before our current 'Screen Age', children's cries of "It's sooo boring!" or "I'm bored!" were often met with the one solution: "Go outside and play!"

It seems these parents were really onto something. Research globally shows that allowing children to feel boredom and encouraging them to create activities to fill the space can be a springboard to building better emotional wellbeing and mental health. And this is a state that should be encouraged not avoided.

Leah Stevenson, The Resilience Project's Teaching and Learning Advisor, agrees and says we all need time to sit with our feelings, not find ways to continually escape them.

"Technology and devices can really numb our feelings. If we don't give ourselves time to allow our thoughts to wander, to daydream, we don't give ourselves the space to process big emotions, especially something like trauma. We just don't get the time to learn how to deal with it. This is important for children too. The way I like to explain it is, device-free time creates presence; presence creates conversations; conversations create connection and connection creates resilience."

What the research says

In 2017, Toy Company Melissa and Doug commissioned a survey of 1,000 parents each from the UK, Canada and Australia to discover how children's free time was spent. It revealed that "too few parents let boredom work its magic". Although more than two thirds of the parents surveyed said they were worried their children spent too much time on electronic devices, only a quarter of them let their child confront boredom on their own.

Scientific American also revealed research by the Lego Foundation, which found that unstructured play – that is, activity guided more by imagination than rules – helps children to develop fine motor skills and importantly, social, communication and emotional skills that build resilience.

This type of play, VicHealth says, also fosters risks-taking, demonstrating that it is okay to make mistakes and helps children learn how to deal with the consequences of mistakes. These are essential skills that are needed all throughout life.

Role modelling boredom

Leah also stresses how important role modelling is in influencing behaviour change with children. "I think a really big point is how are we role modelling back to our kids. How often do we allow ourselves to be alone with our thoughts, to have time-out from our devices? How many times are we in a doctor's waiting room for example or waiting for a friend in a cafe and are filling in the time on our phones or other devices?"

Persuading your children to replace screen time by embracing boredom and doing a bit of creative thinking instead of numbing out with screens will take practice. You might want to name these new activity sessions something like "Boredom Busters" that will signal to the children that fun times are ahead, and they may start to look forward to them or even request them.

Making the most out of boredom

Giving children opportunities to see just how inventive they can be by allowing them to come up with their own boredom busters, can turn out to be quite magical. While parents and carers can help provide a framework for their imaginative play, kids should be empowered to drive the creativity.

If you need it, check out the ideas below to help get them started:

- Encourage kids to explore the space they're in. This could be your home, the backyard, the park – wherever you are. If they're stuck on what to explore, try suggesting a hunting expedition. What objects can they find in that space? A feathery one, a green one, a fluffy one, an object that starts with "A" and so on.
- Give kids some masking tape and prompt them to create a race track or town roads on the floor. Add a few matchbox cars, blocks or Lego to the mix and this could provide hours of imaginative play.
- Pull out a couple of old cardboard boxes when boredom hits, along with drawing materials or decorations and let imaginations run wild — from creating a rocket, car, plane or just a colourful space to play in.
- Help little kids, or simply encourage bigger kids, to set up a cubby. They could use big sheets and some chairs to play houses, neighbours, camping or whatever they can dream up.

OSHCLUB NEWS

Dear Parents and Guardians,

Vacation Care Fun!

Greenhills OSHClub finally got the opportunity to go on some excursions these school holidays! After cancellations due to extreme weather in summer 2020 and then COVID, our excursions to Melbourne Zoo, Melbourne Museum and Skaterz in Eltham were especially exciting for both the children and the OSHClub staff. Everyone's favourite excursion was Melbourne Zoo where everyone got the opportunity to share (and hopefully see) one of their favourite animals. There was also a lot to learn at Melbourne Museum as we took ourselves on a self-guided tour of all of the different collections. Everyone enjoyed the "Dinosaur Walk" and craning their necks to see the wondrous height of a T-Rex! Skaterz gave a number of children the opportunity to show off their skating skills as well as for some of the younger children to have their first try at skating. There were a few tumbles, but by the end everyone was that little bit more confident in their skating skills.

These school holidays we also had several fun and exciting incursions, including silly science, laser tag, a mobile zoo and Nerf wars! Following up the excursion to Melbourne Zoo with the mobile zoo of native animals that gave the children the opportunity to see some of the animals up close as well as touch or hold some of them was fantastic. Everyone particularly loved the tiny sugar glider and their hairy-nosed wombat. Laser tag was probably the most popular incursion we had these school holidays, with game after game happening all day. The fun and action continued with the Nerf wars where it was every child for themselves!

And getting hands on (and making slime!) with the silly science was fun too!

We're already looking forward and planning for our next school holidays in June/July, so we hope we'll see you there!

OSHClub Staff!

In the coming weeks there we will be welcoming two new educators to Greenhills OSHClub! They will be joining current service staff Megan and Jordan and we're sure they'll be a great asset to the team. Unfortunately, our educator Crystal has needed to return to being a casual OSHClub team member so that she may focus on her tertiary education requirements, but she will still be helping out at the service whenever she is available. We wish Crystal the best with her studies! Look out for the news of the new OSHClub team members in the coming weeks!

Please note, children require a hat at when OSHClub After-School Care from September 1st to April 30th if they wish to go outside. We only have a few spare hats, so please remember to bring one!!

If you need to make a booking, please do so through the iParent Portal.
